Emergency services ordinance rejected

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners shot down a proposed ordinance that would have regulated ambulance operations in the county.

The board, by a 6-to-1 vote, rejected a proposed emergency medical services ordinance that has been heavily debated by local medical officials the past couple of months.

A portion of the state's Public Health Code allows municipalities to adopt ordinances to establish procedures for ambulance services in order to ensure reliable, timely and effective medical transportation service.

The ordinance, which was pushed by Beaver Creek Township Fire Chief Ed Holtcamp, said that the quality and reliability of the services will be enhanced if an ambulance contractor is offered an exclusive contract to furnish both emergency and non-emergency patient transportation between hospitals and other medical care facilities. The ordinance required all hospitals, nursing homes and other inpatient care facilities to obtain non-emergency transportation from the county's medical transportation contractor.

There were exceptions to the requirement, however, when the contractor could not provide timely service or an ambulance service funded by a municipality can provide the transportation.

Mobile Medical Response (MMR) of Saginaw has contracted with the county to provide ambulance service since 2000.

Prior to MMR entering the county, North Flight, an ambulance service owned by Munson Medical Center, had provided county wide ambulance services in Crawford County for 10 years.

North Flight had sought a subsidy from the county because the service had lost $500,000 over a five-year period while serving Crawford County. The county denied the subsidy due to budget issues, and contracted with MMR for ambulance services.

North Flight continues to maintain an office and ambulances in Grayling, operating out of the Grayling Industrial Park.

Mercy Hospital, which is owned by Trinity Health, has a management agreement with Munson Medical Center for services. North Flight is owned by Munson Medical.

Ray Little, the CEO for MMR, said the ambulance service was supporting the ordinance in order to garner the revenue from fees generated from non-emergency transfers between hospitals and other medical care offices.

Last year, Little said MMR handled 2,200 transfers in Crawford County and lost a total of $177,000 to maintain three 24-hour ambulances locally.

Making Maple Syrup

Hartwick Pines State Park held its annual Maple Syrup Day on Saturday, as park visitors witnessed the making of one of North America's oldest agriculture products - maple syrup. Children took part in activities, helped tap maple trees for sap, saw sap being boiled down to make maple syrup and tested some maple syrup candies. GHS seniors honored for volunteerism

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Whether up to her elbows cleaning pens at the Animal Shelter of Crawford County or knitting an afghan for the needy, Grayling High School senior Alexzandra Mosel says that performing community service is just plain fun.

Mosel was among a group of seven voracious volunteers who were recently honored by the Crawford AuSable School District Board for going above and beyond their mandated community services hours, which are required to receive a diploma.

Crawford AuSable School officials established the requirement that all high school students perform 40 hours of community service - at least 10 hours of service per year from their freshman year through graduation - in the 1994-95 school year.

Three years ago, Grayling High School Principal Doniel Pummell started having the Crawford AuSable School District Board recognize students who have performed over 100 community service hours or more.

"We try to have our students get out there in the community, helping out and giving back to people because that's what makes our world go around," Pummell said.

Mosel has done over 14 times the required number of community service hours, logging 576 volunteers hours and she is still counting.

Mosel plans to pursue a career in animal assisted therapy, which entails providing physical therapy to people with the involvement of animals. She has performed most of her community service hours at the Animal Shelter of Crawford County, cleaning pens, walking dogs, brushing cats and dogs and assisting with the shelter's outreach adoption program at the Detroit Zoo.

"I love being able to help out, interacting with the animals and learning from them, and hopefully, it can make their lives better so they can find homes," Mosel said.

Mosel has also done community service through the Key Club - a youth group for the Local officials learn more about land banks

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Crawford County Commissioners, who are studying tools to promote commercial and residential development, received more information on establishing a land bank last week.

A land bank is a governmental entity that focuses on returning vacant, abandoned and tax-delinquent properties to productive use.

The State of Michigan recently authorized counties across the state to form land banks. Land banks have already been established in Genesee, Berrien, Ingham, Saginaw, Calhoun, Grand Traverse, Jackson and Wayne counties. Detroit is the only city given the opportunity to establish its own land bank.

Land banks can receive control of properties by private donation, private purchase or transfer from another governmental unit, but are not allowed to acquire land through condemnation of eminent domain.

Flamingos used for student's fund-raiser

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

A flock of pink flamingos is circulating around the community for an effort to send a Grayling High School student to Europe.

Tabbitha Pelkey, a Grayling High School sophomore, has been selected to take part in the People to People Student Ambassador program and will travel to Europe this summer.

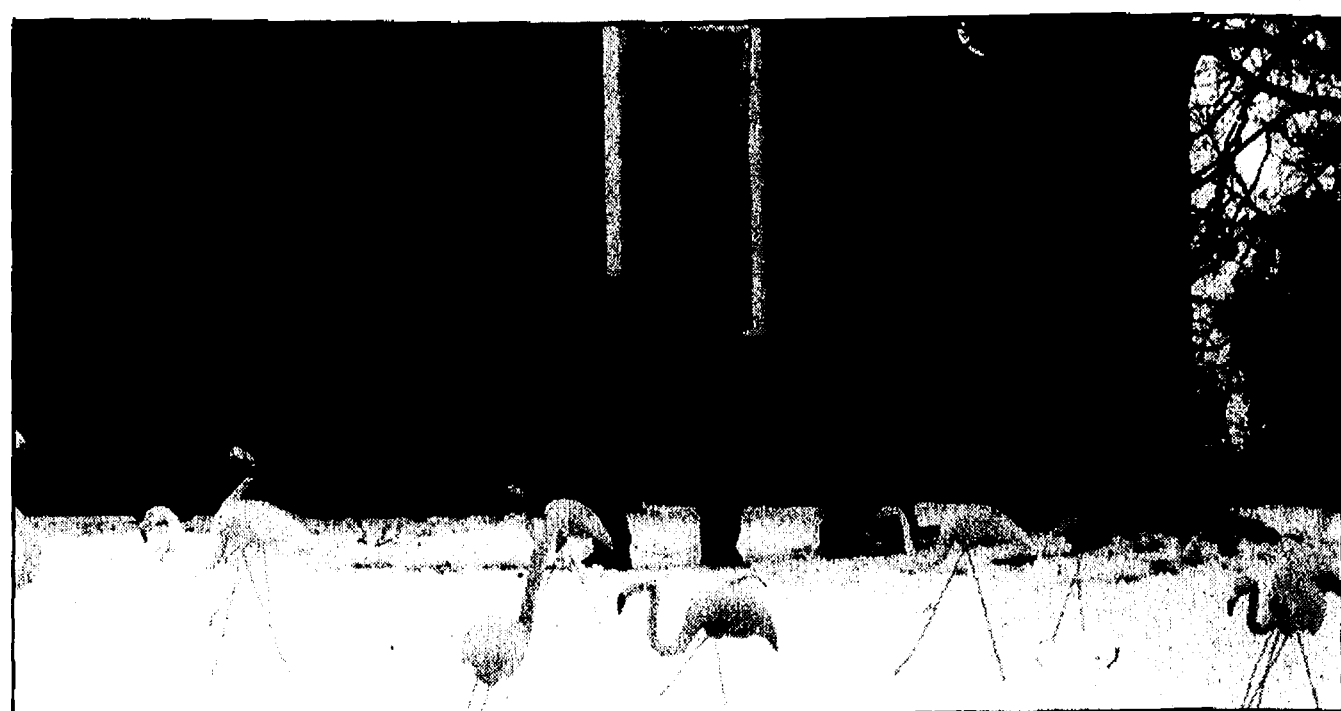

Elaina Murray, a junior at Grayling High School, Jessica Pickell, a freshman, and Robert Thiel, a Grayling Middle School seventh grader, are other students who are taking part in the program.

The objective of the People to People Student Ambassador program is to promote international understanding while building leadership skills among America's youth. The 20-day experience includes meetings with government officials, interaction with other students, educational activities and home stays with host families.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower founded the organization in 1956, believing that if people from different cultures could come together in peace and friendship, eventually it would also bring peace between the countries.

The students can earn high school and college credit through their participation in the program.

The tuition cost is $5,300 per student to cover the cost of transportation, accommodations, meals and educational activities.

A version of tag involving a flock of flamingo yard ornaments is being played as part of Tabbitha Pelkey's fund-raising efforts for her tuition for the People to People Student Ambassador program. The flamingos were first placed in a yard owned by Tom Wellman, a Grayling City Council member. Above, Pelkey is pictured with Wellman with the pink birds in his snow covered yard earlier this month.

The four students have been collectively and individually soliciting donations to pay for their tuition. They have held car washes, bake sales, a beef stroganoff dinner and held a baby sitting night on Valentine's Day to give couple a chance to get out for the night. The Burger King in Grayling also collected funds for the students over a month's time.

The student will hold a bake sale at Glen's Market on Saturday, April 7 at Glen's Market. A car wash and hot dog sale will also be held in May at Glen's Market to help raise tuition funds.

A version of tag involving a flock of flamingo yard ornaments is being played as part of Pelkey's fund-raising efforts.

The flamingos will be placed on someone's yard along with a note about the purpose for the trip to Europe. A person can pay $5 to have the flamingos removed, or $15 to have them placed in a friend's yard.

Jill Stanley, Pelkey's mother, said she got the idea for the fundraiser from a patron at the Lone Pine Restaurant, where she works as a waitress. The flamingos are on loan from Mark Brown, a salesman for CSI Emergency Apparatus of Grayling, who is a friend of the family, Stanley said.

"We don't want to upset anyone," Stanley said. "We just want to have a little fun, raise some funds for Tabbitha's trip and see how many places we can put these flamingos."

The flamingos were first placed in a yard owned by Tom Wellman, a Grayling City Council member who is a Lone Pine Restaurant regular.

"We just thought that starting at his house would spark some curiosity," Stanley said.

The flamingos will be moved to high visibility areas in the community such as Michigan Avenue and Sherwood Forest in the next week.

"I'm hoping that we can keep this going for a couple of weeks," Stanley said.

Local officials learn more about land banks

Land banks, due to their tax exempt status, can more efficiently prepare property for sale that can be utilized for new homes or businesses.

Last week, Dan Kildee, the treasurer for Genesee County, gave a presentation to county commissioners about land banks.

Kildee said that land banks allow counties to efficiently dispose of property that is foreclosed upon. The state tax foreclosure act allows counties to foreclose on a piece of property after taxes have not been paid for just over two years.

Kildee said that the land bank allows the government to take control of the land as opposed to having it go to a speculator who may turn into a rental, furthering blight issues. The land bank can also address potential contamination issues with the property.

Kildee said the land bank authority for Genesee County, which covers the City of Flint, has been able to demolish hundreds of dilapidated homes and rehab dozens of others.

"It allows you to put local buyers at the front of the line," Kildee said.

Crawford County Treasurer Joe Wakeley said Crawford County only foreclosed on eight parcels of land last year, and none of those properties were commercial ventures. Wakeley added that one home was demolished and sold as vacant land so that home would not be used as a rental property.

"The demolition cut into our profit from the sale of the land, but our goal was to not have that house sold put back out as a bad rental property," Wakeley said.

Kildee recommended the county have its Brownfield Redevelopment Authority, a committee which address contaminated, abandoned and blighted properties, serve as its land bank.

Kildee said that most municipalities in Genesee County participate with the land bank. The few exceptions are when a municipality believes it can more effectively address a contaminated, blighted or abandoned property on their own.

"Our view is that's a local decision, so I don't find that as being uncooperative at all," Kildee said. "We are all working hand and glove, because we have a mutual self interest because we depend on the same property to generate our tax revenue so it is something that we all benefit from."

Kildee will be working with county officials on potentially forming a land bank in the coming months.

Larry Campbell, a Madison Heights based developer, urged county officials to establish a land bank and use a tax break program similar to the one developed by Wayne County aimed at redeveloping residential, commercial and business properties.

Campbell is purchasing the property located at the corner of M-72 West and the I-75 Business Loop from Jim Vanderlaan, a developer from Lake City who owns several commercial and residential properties in Grayling, to build a Walgreens drug store.

Campbell is seeking to have a 100 percent tax break for one year while the drug store is being built, as well as a 50 percent tax break for five years after the store is operating.

Kildee told county commissioners that it was unclear if a land bank could offer tax break incentives for a property.

"I think there are a lot of open questions on just how flexible this act really is as far as doing some of those things," Kildee said.

Campbell, who did not attend last week's meeting, said he thought it was unfortunate that county officials did not explore the land bank and tax incentive programs being offered in Wayne County.

"If they take the stance that they're not going to do anything, you're going to get much of the same," Campbell said.

Despite lack of approval for a requested tax break, Campbell said that a Walgreens store will be built in the community.

"We made a commitment, and we will be coming into Grayling," he said.

County Commissioner Scott Hanson cast the lone vote in support of adopting the ordinance.

"If we continue at status quo, in the future, Crawford County is not going to get an ambulance service up here unsubsidized," Hanson said. "Right now, we don't have the money in the general fund. We would have to have a millage passed, and I don't know if that would pass."

Commissioner Mike Lange said he thought the ordinance should have been brought up a year ago, when the county renewed its five-year contract with MMR for ambulance service.

"I'm just confused of why we would give them a windfall at this time without opening the contract up for bids," Lange said.

Kathleen McManus, a senior vice president for Munson Medical Center and president of North Flight, said the service volunteered to eliminate an ambulance that operated 24-hours a day in Crawford County, leaving one ambulance that operated for a 12-hour shift to give MMR more transfers.

McManus said that North Flight has had to transfer an ambulance from Manton into Crawford County when there is a high volume of calls for transfers and 911 calls.

"It is so unpredictable, and it truly is feast or famine," McManus said. "MMR can't possibly answer all the needs. They have been doing a great job answering the 911 service, but you do have to have some back up."

Mercy Hospital Grayling officials say they leave the option up to doctors and patients on which ambulance service handles inner hospital transfers. The hospital also utilizes the Denton Township Ambulance in Roscommon County, MMR, North Flight and the Tri-Township Ambulance Service based in Atlanta in Montmorency County for patient transfers.

Stephanie Riemer-Matuzak, the CEO for Mercy Hospital Grayling, supported establishing a pilot program with the reduced North Flight service to create more transfer opportunities for MMR.

"I truly believe that our patients and our community will be better served by having that back up available," Riemer-Matuzak said.

Dave Stephenson, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners, offered to facilitate a meeting between county, ambulance and hospital officials in hopes of addressing unresolved issues.

"That would be in the best interest of the citizens of this community and that will be the first step," Stephenson said. "If that does not work, I guess we'll be back at the drawing board."

Endowment fund created for economic development

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

The Crawford County Economic Development Partnership (CCEDP) Board established an endowment fund last week to fund future economic development endeavors in the community.

John Alef, president of Citizens Bank-Grayling, presented a check for $1,000 to the Community Foundation of Northeast Michigan that will be used to create the CCEDP Endowment Fund.

"It is our hope that this endowment fund will quickly grow and become a future source of funding for economic development activities within Crawford County," said Alef, who is a CCEDP Board member.

Alef also presented a second check for $10,000, which will be held to encourage challenge funding for the new endowment fund.

Phil Lewis, plant manager for the Grayling Generating Station who is also a CCEDP Board member, donated a $1,000 check as the first match toward the challenge.

The CCEDP Board hopes to reach a short-term goal of $22,000, and has a long-term goal of $2 million.

Gailia Gilliland, economic development director for the CCEDP, said the economic development board will decide how money donated to the endowment fund will be spent. Possibilities including establishing a revolving loan fund, purchasing property for economic development or funding marketing initiatives. Eventually, when enough funds are built up, the CCEDP board hopes that funds generated by the endowment will help pay for day-to-day operations for the organization, Gilliland said.

Barbara Willyard, executive director for the Community Foundation of Northeast Michigan, said that gifts to the endowment fund could be made in cash, property, appreciated securities, bequests or deferred gifts such as charitable annuities or trusts.

"The endowment offers an opportunity for individuals to express a commitment and invest in the future of the community they love," Willyard said.

A tax credit is also among the benefits to a donor. A couple filing a joint federal tax return can make a gift to a permanent endowment fund at a Michigan Community Foundation of up to $400 for which they receive a $200 tax credit on their Michigan tax return. A person filing an individual federal tax return can make a gift of up to $200 for which they receive a $100 tax credit. While the Single Business Tax is still in effect, a business can make a gift of up to $10,000 and receive a tax credit of $5,000. The business tax credit depends on the tax situation of the business and must be determined by one's tax advisor. Beyond the tax benefits, any gift to a community foundation will garner the same tax benefits of giving to any IRS approved charitable organization.

"The CCEDP is working toward creating opportunities for our citizens and businesses throughout our county," said Kay Cosgray, chairwoman of the CCEDP Board. "With the creation of this endowment and the support of Citizen's Bank and all who contribute to this endowment, economic development will continue to improve the quality of life in Crawford County for many years to come."

ALMANACK

Sunshine Laws, newspapers work for the public

MICHIGAN HAS a pretty good set of laws guaranteeing to the people the right to know about their governments.

These Michigan laws adopted in 1976 apply to public meetings and government records. They require that the public have access to meetings and records so the people can know how their governments are operating.

Together these open meetings and public records laws are known as Sunshine Laws.

During the annual observance of Sunshine Week in Michigan recently, many newspapers ran stories, editorials and columns about these laws and how important they are to the people and to the cause of good government.

The reasoning behind the Sunshine Laws is simple yet profound:

In the American system of self-determination, governments are elected by the people, and the people have the right to know what their governments are doing.

By extension, this theory also covers government appointed boards, commissions and departments. In short, everything that government does at any level is the proper business of the people.

THE CONSTITUTION of the United States in its Bill of Rights guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Here are the familiar words the First Amendment to the US Constitution:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

The Michigan constitution protects speech and the press, too. Here's the Michigan wording:

"Every person may freely speak, write, express and publish his views on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right; and no law shall be enacted to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press."

Michigan's Sunshine Laws go beyond these constitutional rights specifically to guarantee access to governmental actions to the people and to the press.

In general, the public may attend all meetings of governmental bodies, and the public may inspect all written documents or records connected with any of their governments or their activities.

* * *

SOME EXEMPTIONS to the Michigan laws have developed over time, usually when reluctant governments and insistent newspapers take the matter to court. Generally, but not always, Michigan courts have sided with openness.

State universities, for example, have claimed that because they are specifically created in the Michigan constitution, some of their actions should be excepted from the open meetings and open records laws ordained by the legislature.

In some cases, the legislature considers itself exempt from these Sunshine laws covering other governmental bodies.

But all in all, most public meetings and public records are open to anyone who cares to know.

Newspapers and other media are the most active users of Michigan sunshine laws. Generally it has been newspapers and media who have fought the court battles to define and ensure openness in government, and they are the ones who most frequently call upon governments to open their meetings or their records for public scrutiny.

* * *

IT'S WELL TO keep in mind an important and very fundamental point: Newspapers do not act for themselves, but rather as an agent of the people.

When the federal and state constitutions guarantee freedom of the press, they are guaranteeing that the people have access to information so that the people can better determine how to run their own affairs through governments.

Newspapers are the agent of the people.

The press can make the information available, but the people must use their freedoms to absorb the information and to apply it to their actions. Without adequate information, people often make bad decisions, or no decisions at all.

Using the constitutional guarantees of press freedom, and the state laws guaranteeing access to public actions and public records, is the surest way to protect the freedoms that we all enjoy.

In fact, it probably is the only route to enlightened self-determination.

To the editor:

I would like to comment on the new dollar coin. I just think it is outrageous that this new coin is going to be used as money. I think it is wrong that this coin is going to be used at all, it is missing the words "In God We Trust." I just don't understand I guess.

Public encouraged to report dead corvid

For the past six years, the State of Michigan has supported with surveillance funding the coordinated testing and reporting of dead corvid (blue jays, crows, and ravens) data via the State's Emerging Diseases website. In 2006, Michigan recorded a total of 414 corvids that were tested for West Nile Virus (WNV), with 256 positive.

Although experience with the WNV is fairly new, there appears to be characteristic patterns emerging through out the state and nation. Since these patterns have emerged, the state and federal authorities have moved to new disease threats that have developed and grab the attention from the public health community and the general public.

As in any newly observed disease that has become established, resources directed for surveillance, prevention and control tend to dwindle over time. West Nile Virus is no exception. Funding that had previously been utilized to test the corvids have dried up with the state no longer testing these birds for WNV. With waning funding, District Health Department #10 along with many other local health departments don't have the monies available to continue this testing.

Although the funding for testing is gone, the district encourages the general public to continue to report dead corvids to the West Nile Hotline at 1-888-668-0869 or at the state website - www.Michigan.gov/mda then clicking on the West Nile Virus section and follow the general instructions given to report the bird.

It helps to talk about grief

Markey Community Baptist Church and Heartland Hospice understand how the loss of a loved one can create new meanings in your life. It can feel as if no one else really understands how you feel. You may feel the need to find ways to give your self permission to grieve in your own way.

There are ways to cope with the loss of a loved one and plan in a healthy way for the future. Being with others who are grieving can be very helpful. Talking with caring and trained professionals can help too.

The Markey Baptist Church and Heartland Hospice will be co-sponsoring GRIEF SHARE: A Grief Support Group for all those who are facing the future after a loved one's death.

There will be 10 sessions, April 10 - June 12, Tuesday's 6:30 p.m. - 8 p.m., at Markey Baptist Church, 4736 Flint Rd, (between N. Houghton Lake Road and 104) Roscommon.

The Bible Speaks

Baptists in America

James R. Beller wrote a book in 2004 entitled, "America in Crimson Red." The subtitle was, "The Baptist History of America." In over 600 pages he documents the names, words, and events related to Baptists in America which have been almost totally obliterated due to modern historical revisionism.

In his introduction Beller wrote a startling declaration which the historical facts of his book were assembled to defend: "America is a Baptist nation. Her principles are altogether Baptist and her heritage is imbued with Baptist ideals, courage and blood. She is governed by Baptist polity, ingrained with the higher plane of soul-liberty and under girded by a hidden, yet profound Baptist history."

Roger Williams born near 1519 in London, England, is only listed by Beller as 5th of the 12 most important men in the building of America. Roger Williams founded one of the first Baptist Churches in America at Providence, Rhode Island. Williams fought for religious liberty all his life. He opposed the ordinance passed March of 1635 by the Boston court requiring all men aged 16 and older to take "the Oath of a Freeman." The oath required abiding by the laws of New England in both civil and religious matters. Williams refused to retract his opposition even when called before the Boston court on April 30, 1635.

Roger Williams not only fought for religious liberty, but for the property rights of American Indians whose land was being confiscated by the King of England. Williams wrote about the law of Patents: "The sin of the patents, Mr. Williams says, lay heavy on his mind, especially that part of which Christian kings were invested with a right, by virtue of their Christianity, to take and give away the land and countries of other men."

Roger Williams also took a stand against the enforcement of the First Table of the Law. All of the Ten Commandments were being enforced as civil law in the colonies. Williams did not believe man's responsibilities to God under the first table could be punished by the state. Williams defended the right of all citizens including unbelievers to follow the dictates of their own conscience in their worship of God.

Roger Williams was banished from Massachusetts in September of 1636. "Governor Winslow of Plymouth suggested that the 'madman' go west beyond Seekonk, into Rhode Island, the 'sewer of New England.'" Williams moved into Narragansett Indian land and lived with the Indians. Williams, his wife, two children, and eleven followers purchased Indian land, founded a colony and called it Providence.

Beller called Williams, "the first missionary to the Indians, the first European to publish a primer on the Native American languages, the first statesman to defend Native American land rights, and the first 'American' to be banished for religious convictions."

Beller writes of Williams, "However, if what we mean by being 'American' is freedom, liberty of conscience, the right to worship God as we deem correct — yet without coercion or interference by the government; then Roger Williams was the first 'American.' An army of others would soon follow." America was built upon the Book, the Blood and the Blessed hope of our Lord Jesus Christ. Pastor "B"

Easter coloring creations displayed downtown

Colorful Easter Bunny pictures created by pre-school through fifth grade students for a coloring contest sponsored by Grayling Uptown District Association are on display at several downtown businesses. The pictures will be displayed through Monday, April 9. Parents, friends and family are encouraged to come and view their child's artwork and vote for their favorite picture. Pictures created by the preschool are on display at the J. Dap Company; kindergarten, Radio Shack, first grade, Parrott's Perch; second grade, Riverland; third grade, Flowers by Josie/Thanks a Latte; fourth grade, Davis Jewelers; and fifth grade, The Icehouse Quilt Shop. Above, Ali Baynham, the owner of The Icehouse Quilt Shop, is pictured next to the Easter Bunny pictures on display at the entrance of the business.

Nine vie for three seats on Kirtland College board

There will be at least one new face on the Kirtland Community College Board of Trustees at the board's June meeting, with nine candidates vying for three seats in an upcoming election set for Tuesday, May 8.

While the election is more than a month away, potential candidates were required to file nominating petitions or pay a $100 filing fee by Feb. 13. The nine candidates who filed to have their names placed on the May 8 ballot include residents from Crawford (3), Ogemaw (3), Roscommon (2) and Oscoda (1) counties.

The three seats — two six-year terms, and one four-year term — up for election include the trustee positions currently held by long-time board member Robert Bovee of Grayling, and board appointees Patricia Webb of Roscommon and Denis Weiss of West Branch. Both Webb and Weiss are hoping to return to the board, while Bovee has reportedly opted not to seek re-election.

Those filing to challenge Webb, who was appointed to the board in 2004, in the race for the two six-year terms include: (from Crawford County) Detmar Finke, John Pilon, Mary Ann Ferrigan; (from Ogemaw County) Ruggero Dozzi, Anthony Coln; (from Oscoda County) Claude "Pepper" Karstendiek; and (from Roscommon County) George Koslowsky.

Weiss was the lone candidate to file to serve the remainder of a four-year term. He was appointed to the KCC board in November 2005 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of then Trustee Jan Farmer, whose term runs through May 2011.

Elections to the seven-member board of trustees are usually held every two years, with at least two seats up for election.

Regular meetings are of the board of trustees are held on the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m., except in June, when the meeting is scheduled for the second Thursday of the month. Board members are not compensated for their time, but they are reimbursed for any expenses associated with their duties, such as mileage.

The board serves as the policy-making body for Kirtland's main campus located near Roscommon, as well as the Michigan Technical Education Center (M-TEC) in Gaylord, with the college's service area including all or parts of Crawford, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Roscommon, Otsego, Kalkaska, Missaukee, Gladwin and Alcona counties, and the surrounding areas. Currently, about 2,300 students attend a variety of certificate and two-year degree programs at the two campuses.

For more information, contact Kathy Koch by calling 989-275-5000, extension 253, or via e-mail at kochk@kirtland.edu. Details on the Kirtland board, including information on individual board members, may be viewed online at www.kirtland.edu/board.

Signs of spring get residents dancing

The days are getting longer, the snow is melting away and signs of spring are making themselves known; the sighting of the first robin, the shy daffodils emerging and the urge to dance with glee.

Residents of Grayling Nursing and Rehabilitation Community donned their finest spring attire and put on their dancing shoes for their "Spring Fling" Dinner and Dance last week. "The warm day preceding the evening festivities got everyone in the mood," said Anna Biernat, activities director.

Dynamic James Entertainment provided selections from Cole Porter classics, Big Band Swing to Disco tunes. Toes began to tap and the dance floor began to fill with residents and their friends and family. All the dance cards were filled and disabilities did not impede those who had the spirit of spring in them.

"Who could ever imagine the over sixty crowd would stay until the last dance to usher in spring with style? And they did, said Biernat. Now spring has officially arrived."

Resident Jack Hull and Anna Biernat, activity director, at Grayling Nursing and Rehabilitation Community dancing at the Spring Fling Dinner and Dance.

Son joins team at Denholm Family Chiropractic Clinic

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Denholm Family Chiropractic is now not just a family chiropractic clinic in name only.

Dr. Kyle Denholm, the son of the Dr. Craig Denholm, joined the practice at the clinic located on M-93 Highway South in Grayling last month.

Kyle Denholm started seeing patients at the clinic on Feb. 27, just four days after graduating from the Palmer College of Chiropractic, which is located in Davenport, Iowa.

Kyle Denholm, 26, completed his four year degree to become a chiropractor, which entailed studying biology, anatomy and human sciences. He spent the last year and a half doing his clinicals and internship, which included, examining x-rays, seeing patients and doing chiropractic adjustments under the supervision of a licensed doctor.

Before going to chiropractic school, Kyle Denholm earned his bachelor's degree in biology from Hillsdale College. He was considering pursuing a career as an orthopedic surgeon, but decided that becoming a chiropractor and following in his father's footsteps was a more natural fit.

"Chiropractors help their patients with a lot of the same things that orthopedic surgeons deal with," Kyle Denholm said. "Being under chiropractic care all of my life, it just seemed like a better fit for me."

Craig Denholm graduated from the Palmer College of Chiropractic 23 years ago.

Kyle Denholm said that the information made available to the medical field in general nearly doubles every 25 years due to the research being done. Therefore, Craig Denholm had to take 200 credit to earn his degree to be a chiropractor, compared to the 328 credits that Kyle Denholm had to complete for his schooling.

Dr. Kyle Denholm (right), the son of Dr. Craig Denholm, joined the practice at the clinic located on M-93 Highway South in Grayling last month.

included learning several new and alternative approaches to health care that people are seeking.

"It's a very natural approach to health care, and we do what we can to help patients stay healthy and keep well," Craig Denholm said.

Kyle Denholm has been seeing patients who regularly come into the clinic. He will begin taking new patients in mid-April.

Eventually, Kyle Denholm said he hopes to open up his own chiropractic practice.

"This is a good start for me, not only to get a good dose of what it's like to be in a practice and to see patients, but to also learn the business sense of things," he said.

Craig Denholm established the Denholm Family Chiropractic Clinic in Grayling nine years ago. His wife and Kyle's mother, Sue Denholm, serves as the office manager at the clinic.

Prior to that, Craig Denholm was an associate at the Saks Wellness Center in Gaylord for nine years. Kyle graduated from Gaylord High School in 1999.

"Grayling has been good to me so far, and I'm looking forward to helping the people in Grayling stay healthy," Kyle Denholm said.

Your Health Matters

Biopsy improvements lessen pain

*"Dr. Prier, what is a sentinel node biopsy?
Is it painful?"*

During breast cancer surgery, lymph nodes from under the arm are removed to check for the spread of cancer. Lymph nodes collect fluid that drains from various parts of the body and are typically the first place where breast cancer that has spread is found.

However, severe, painful swelling in the arm is common if many of these lymph nodes are removed. Sentinel node biopsies, such as those performed at Mercy Hospital Grayling, remove just a few key lymph nodes, which works just as well for a

GHS seniors honored for volunteerism

 Kiwanis Club — by visiting seniors in nursing homes and helping paint the bridge in the Grayling City Park.

Mosel also knitted an afghan through a project called Warm Up American, which provides afghans and blankets for the needy.

"Normally, you come up with five squares and submit them, but I decided to do a whole afghan," she said. "I like to knit and it was fun to do."

Senior Jordan Herrick was given credit for having performed 281 community service hours. Herrick actually moved to Grayling in October, 2005, and many of his service hours were performed as he served in the junior firefighter program for the Freeport Fire and Rescue Department in Florida.

Herrick plans to return to Florida after graduation in order to attend Gulf Coast Community College for training to become a firefighter and paramedic.

"I want to continue serving as a firefighter because I've been with it for so long," Herrick said. "I like the adrenaline rush you get and helping people."

Senior Mary Johnson has volunteered to help with the youth program at the Calvary Baptist Church.

"I love teaching the kids and love being around them," Johnson said.

Johnson, who plans to become a nurse aide, also helps clean the Grayling High School cafeteria and helps spruce up the outside of the building in the spring time.

"It helps out the janitors and helps improve the school environment by keeping the school clean," Johnson said.

Johnson, who has performed over 118 community service hours, hopes the credit will give her a leg up when she pursues job possibilities.

"It looks good having the community service, and hopefully that will show someone why I would be the better person to have the job," Johnson.

Senior Jonathan Denton, who has over 203 community service hours, has helped with pancake breakfast fund-raisers at the St. Mary's Church. He also assisted his grandfather, Roger Moshier, the mayor pro tem for the Grayling City Council, with the community's annual scrap tire collection.

But by far, Denton's favorite way to perform his community service is helping out with the Association of Youth Soccer Organization as a coach and referee.

"I don't care if I'm not out there playing," said Denton, who plans to become a physical therapist. "I just like being out there on the field, watching the kids playing and helping them learn different techniques to make them better players."

Senior Ashley Bindschattel has performed over 254 community service hours, helping out with Grayling Youth Boosters sports activities and volunteering for Big Brother Big Sisters and American Red Cross activities.

Nicholas Parkinson has recorded 232 community service hours volunteering for Knights of Columbus and River House Shelter activities as well as volunteering with the Viking Pep Band.

Finally, Senior Crystal Schwartz has logged 117 community service hours, serving all of her hours volunteering at the Grayling Assembly of God Church working in the nursery, helping with the junior church program and serving as an usher and greeter.

The community service must be voluntary, non-paid service. The hours must be performed for non-profit organizations or individuals outside the student's family, and may not be for political purposes.

Grayling High School Senior Mary Johnson, who has performed over 118 community service hours, helps clean the Grayling High School cafeteria and helps spruce up the outside of the building in the spring time.

Hours must be performed outside the school day unless school-related and organized by a high school staff member.

Students must submit documentation explaining the community service they performed along with contact information to the school.

A community service database is maintained by Margaret Knapp, a library paraprofessional at Grayling High School. Large binders are kept for each class and various classifications for the community service projects which have been created by Knapp to help track the community service hours as well as organizations seeking volunteers.

Student Senate and National Honor Society members have to complete 20 volunteer hours beyond the required hours for graduation requirement. Hours are also recorded for the Positive Peer Involvement program.

Transfer students must complete an equivalent of five hours of community service for each semester attended at Grayling High School.

Waivers may be granted for extreme circumstances approved by school administrators.

Seniors must submit all hours by the end of the first semester of their senior year.

High school administrators have threatened to revoke a student's parking pass or not allow them to take part in prom or graduation activities if they do not fulfill their community service requirements.

"We, fortunately, have never had to come right down to doing that," Knapp said.

Spring ahead with driving safety tips

(ARA) – When cold weather begins to warm, motorists may think their driving cares have melted away with the winter ice and snow. Not so. "Spring brings its own set of challenges for safety-conscious drivers," says Jim Sinclair, vice president of service for Subaru of America, Inc. "Many drivers underestimate the need for control that all-wheel drive provides in slick rainy conditions – after the snow and ice have melted."

Just as you winterized your car with an eye to safety last fall, it's time to begin work on your spring automotive safety check list. Here are some hints for ensuring your car is in top condition for safe spring motoring:

• Rain is a common spring driving hazard. While most people think of ice or snow when cautioned about slippery roads, the truth is wet roads can be just as slick. Tires can hydroplane on a layer of water, losing contact with the road and causing the vehicle to skid. Rain lifts oil and other slippery fluids, dripped by passing autos, creating a slick layer on the blacktop. Flooded roads can flood out engines. Slow down on wet roads. Consider buying a vehicle with features like all wheel drive and electronic stability control.

• Start out with a safe car. Studies show that all wheel drive and electronic stability control significantly reduce the risk of being involved in a crash. Automakers are beginning to offer the technologies on more models.

• Replace worn tires. Your tires are what keep the car on the road. Worn out treads provide less traction and greater chance to slide. Likewise, make sure tires are inflated properly according to your vehicle's owner's manual.

• Spring showers bring May flowers, but let this be a reminder to also check and replace worn wiper blades. Poorly maintained windshield wipers can hamper visibility in poor weather. After a long winter of salt and other road residue on the windows, wiper effectiveness is greatly enhanced by cleaning the glass with a strong glass cleaner that can remove the oily film. And don't forget the inside of the glass. Removing the film on the inside can help the defroster clear faster and reduce moisture build-up.

As part of its National Car Care month in April, the Car Care Council recommends checking tire treads and windshield wiper quality in preparation for spring driving conditions.

"In our research of vehicles brought in for their April check-up, close to one-fifth of vehicles (17 percent) had front windshield wiper failures and 12 percent of vehicles needed service on their rear wipers and/or washers," says Rich White, executive director of the Car Care Council.

• Spring rain can also dampen visibility so it is important to check all vehicle lighting including headlights, taillights, back-up lights, turn signals, parking lights and break lights. These lights are important not only because they help you to see, but also serve as a way to help you communicate clearly with other motorists.

• Take advantage of safety resources. Throughout National Car Care month, many dealerships offer free safety screenings to motorists who drive the brand of car sold at the dealership.

Few drivers properly check tire pressure

(NewsUSA) – True or false? The best time to check your tires is when they are warm (soon after being driven several miles). If you answered true, you are among the 85 percent of motorists who, according to a recent survey, do not know how to check tire pressure properly.

Federal government and tire industry data show that drivers are not paying enough attention to their tires – the one component that keeps their cars on the road. Automotive experts say tire pressure should be checked once a month – always when the tires are cold – and inflated to the vehicle manufacturer's recommended pressure.

National Highway Traffic

Safety Administration statistics show that one in every three cars have a significantly underinflated tire. Tire blowouts have caused on average 23,000 vehicle crashes a year, while low tire pressure has claimed 660 lives and injured 33,000 people every year.

"Despite the risk posed by poorly maintained tires, too many motorists are neglecting tire care," says John Nielsen, director of AAA's Approved Auto Repair Program. "Taking five minutes each month to check and adjust tire pressure can enhance safety, improve fuel economy and help tires last longer."

In the poll, which was conducted by the Rubber

Manufacturers Association, only 34 percent of respondents said they know how to tell if their tires are bald. The survey also found that motorists lack knowledge of proper tire placement. Four out of five drivers do not know the proper mounting position when replacing two bald tires with two new tires.

"When it comes time to replace tires, the best course of action is to replace all four at the same time using quality tires of the vehicle manufacturer's recommended size," says Dan Zielinski, RMA vice president.

However, if you replace only two tires, Zielinski recommends that they be installed on the rear axle to ensure maximum vehicle stability.

Those who need some help staying on track with vehicle maintenance can sign up for the AAA AutoManager feature on www.AAA.com. This free application sends users regular e-mail reminders indicating when their vehicles are due for recommended maintenance. It also provides tools to help diagnose vehicle problems and locate nearby AAA Approved Auto Repair shops.

Additional information on tire safety may be found on the RMA's Web site at www.betiresmart.org and on the NHTSA's Web site at www.safercar.gov.

Spring showers bring driving safety hazards

Worn out tires and windshield wiper blades are symptoms of neglected vehicle maintenance that put drivers and passengers at serious risk during the typically rainy months of spring.

Thin tire treads create hazardous driving conditions when water builds up on the roadway, according to the Car Care Council. Deep tread accommodates accumulated water; thin tread does not. Thin tread causes the tire to hydroplane – ride up on a film of water, losing contact with the pavement, similar to driving on ice.

The simplest way to check tire tread depth is with a penny. Insert the penny into the grooves of the tread. If you are able to see all of Lincoln's head, the tire needs replacement.

Rainy weather also affects driver visibility. Because 90 percent of driving decisions depend on good vision, a clean windshield is imperative. Streaking and smearing impair vision and are caused by worn windshield blades. One out of every five vehicles that went through the Car Care Council's check lanes had worn wiper blades.

"Replacing worn wiper blades is easy and inexpensive," said Rich White of the Car Care Council. "Why put it off until there's a downpour and your blades are chattering and smearing the windshield?"

Are you ready for the road?

An average of 13,000 Americans are killed between Memorial Day weekend and Labor Day, some a result of unperformed vehicle maintenance, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Each year, neglected maintenance leads to more than 2,600 deaths, nearly 100,000 disabling injuries and more than $2 billion in lost wages, medical expenses and property damage.

Most mechanical failures can be traced to neglected maintenance. For example, the U. S. Department of Transportation reports the leading cause of mechanical breakdown on our nation's highways is overheating, a condition that is easily avoidable. Other deficiencies that are simple to detect include low antifreeze/coolant, worn or loose drive belts and defective cooling system hoses.

Checking tire pressure and inflating a tire costs nothing, yet an average of 21 percent of cars inspected in check lanes during National Car Care Month have under inflated tires. This can lead to a blowout and a serious accident.

The Car Care Council offers these fuel-saving tips:

1. Vehicle gas caps – About 17 percent of the vehicles on the roads have gas caps that are either damaged, loose or are missing altogether, causing 147 million gallons of gas to vaporize every year.

2. Underinflated tires – When tires aren't inflated properly it's like driving with the parking brake on and can cost a mile or two per gallon.

3. Worn spark plugs – A vehicle can have either four, six or eight spark plugs, which fire as many as 3 million times every 1,000 miles, resulting in a lot of heat and electrical and chemical erosion. A dirty spark plug causes misfiring, which wastes fuel. Spark plugs need to be replaced as recommended by the manufacturer.

4. Dirty air filters – An air filter that is clogged with dirt, dust and bugs chokes off the air and creates a "rich" mixture -- too much gas being burned for the amount of air, which wastes gas and causes the engine to lose power. Replacing a clogged air filter can improve gas mileage by as much as 10 percent, saving about 20 cents a gallon.

Fuel-saving driving tips include:

• Don't be an aggressive driver – Aggressive driving can lower gas mileage by as much as 33 percent on the highway and 5 percent on city streets, which results in 10 to 66 cents per gallon.

• Avoid excessive idling – Sitting idle gets zero miles per gallon. Letting the vehicle warm up for one to two minutes is sufficient.

• Observe the speed limit – Gas mileage decreases rapidly at speeds above 60 mph. Each mpg driven over 60 will result in an additional 10 cents per gallon. To maintain a constant speed on the highway, cruise control is recommended.

WIPERS – In the 2001 National Car Care Month vehicle check lanes, 21 percent of participants had wipers that smeared, streaked or chattered across their windshields. Although climates vary, wipers generally need replacing every six months. An easy reminder is to change wiper blades in the spring and fall when you change your clock. Be sure the windshield washers are working properly, too, and keep the reservoir filled with solvent.

LIGHTING – Another important pre-trip check should be exterior and interior lighting. Vehicle check lanes revealed an overall failure rate of over 25 percent in the lighting category. The Car Care Council reminds motorists to check their lights monthly. Other suggestions from the Council include turning on headlights both day and night. This helps define your car's position on the road, and its distance from other drivers. When your vehicle's lighting is defective, other motorists may not get the message that you intend to stop or turn. The end result could be disastrous.

10-Minute Pre-Trip Checkup Can Pay Off – Car Care Council offers three suggestions for a traveler's 10-minute pre-trip checklist:

• Check all fluids. There are several fluids, in addition to antifreeze, that require attention, including engine oil, power steering, brake and transmission fluids and windshield washer solvent and antifreeze/coolant.

• Check hoses and belts. A belt that fails can affect the electrical system, air conditioning and power steering, as well as the cooling system. Cooling system hoses may be deteriorating from within, so old hoses and clamps in marginal condition might need to be replaced.

• Check the tires. Check tire inflation and inspect the tread for uneven wear, indicating the need for wheel alignment. Also look for bulges and bald spots.

"While a last minute checkup is better than no checkup, motorists should plan ahead to allow time to perform necessary maintenance themselves or at the local service facility. A properly maintained vehicle is safer and more dependable and will even save a few dollars at the gas pumps," said the Car Care Council's Executive Director, Rich White.

Not only can a pre-trip inspection help reduce chances of costly and possibly dangerous road trouble, it also provides an opportunity to have repairs made at home, with one's own technician who knows the vehicle. Especially important, it provides peace of mind. While no inspection can guarantee a car's performance, it's comforting to know proper precautions were taken.

Steer clear of potholes this spring

(NewsUSA) – Spring – the time of growth, renewal and new life. The ice has finally melted. The winter blizzards have stopped. While freshly hatched chicks and scampering bunnies are familiar sights, something more ominous is also being born in the spring: potholes.

Just as the spring flowers begin to sprout, those dreaded potholes begin to appear. They are created when the pavement loses the ability to resist water and small cracks appear. As the water works its way down into the cracks and expands as it freezes, it pushes up on the pavement. The weight of a vehicle breaks up this newly uneven pavement, and a pothole is born.

Potholes are not only driving nuisances, but are dangerous as well. Driving over potholes can trigger immediate tire or wheel failure. Potholes may also cause internal damage that can lead to tire failure weeks later.

There are several measures Firestone Complete Auto Care can recommend to protect your safety and the safe operation of your vehicle while the streets are being repaired.

Start with proper tire inflation. Keeping your tires inflated and checking them monthly will help reduce possible damage from suddenly hitting a pothole.

Next, check the tread on your tires. If the tires show uneven wear, it could be a sign of misalignment. If you feel your car "pulling" to one side during driving, have your service professional make sure your wheels and tires are aligned correctly. When having your tires checked, it is also important to rotate them according to recommendations in the owner's manual.

Third, be a proactive driver by avoiding potholes entirely. If you hit a pothole, do not brake during the impact. Instead, apply the brakes before hitting the pothole and release them prior to contact.

Braking during the impact sets up the tire and wheel assembly for a solid hit against the edge of the hole. Rolling over the hole instead reduces the possibility of skidding while braking.

While springtime is a time for beauty, remember that something ugly, such as a pothole, may be looming under your wheels. Take some time now to make sure you and your car are prepared.

Volleyball squad announces all-league, team awards

■ Shentele Apps, Ashley Feldhauser earn all-conference honors in 2006-07

The GHS varsity girls volleyball squad recently announced its two all-conference selections – junior Shentele Apps and freshman Ashley Feldhauser – and three team award honorees.

Apps was named to the all-league first team in the Lake Michigan Conference and Feldhauser was named to the second team.

"Shentele played the most this season for our team. She is a versatile player who was asked to play the outside position, middle blocker position, and the weakside position. It is difficult enough to learn one position but Shentele was able to master four. She led the team with aces and always provided a positive attitude,"

Coach Brian Banda said.

"Ashley was moved to the varsity team late in January. She is a middle attacker with exceptional skills. She was named to the second team all-conference. She made quite an impression on the conference coaches. Not one coach could believe she had never played volleyball prior to this season. Remarkably, she led our team in kills and kill percentage even though she only played in half of our contests. She truly has the potential of being the best middle blocker I have coached," Coach Banda said.

The Vikings also recently announced its three team award honorees:

Most Valuable Player – Kelly Lange, senior. "Kelly is an exceptional young lady with a heart of gold. Her goal this season was to assure everyone got along as much as possible. This was the best bonded team that I have ever coached. Kelly is a true leader that will be missed next season," Coach Banda said.

Coaches Award – Rachel Ward, junior. "Rachel's attitude was always great. She worked hard to master the outside position and led the team in digs. Her outside attack form is great and she gets a tremendous amount of kills for her size," Coach Banda said.

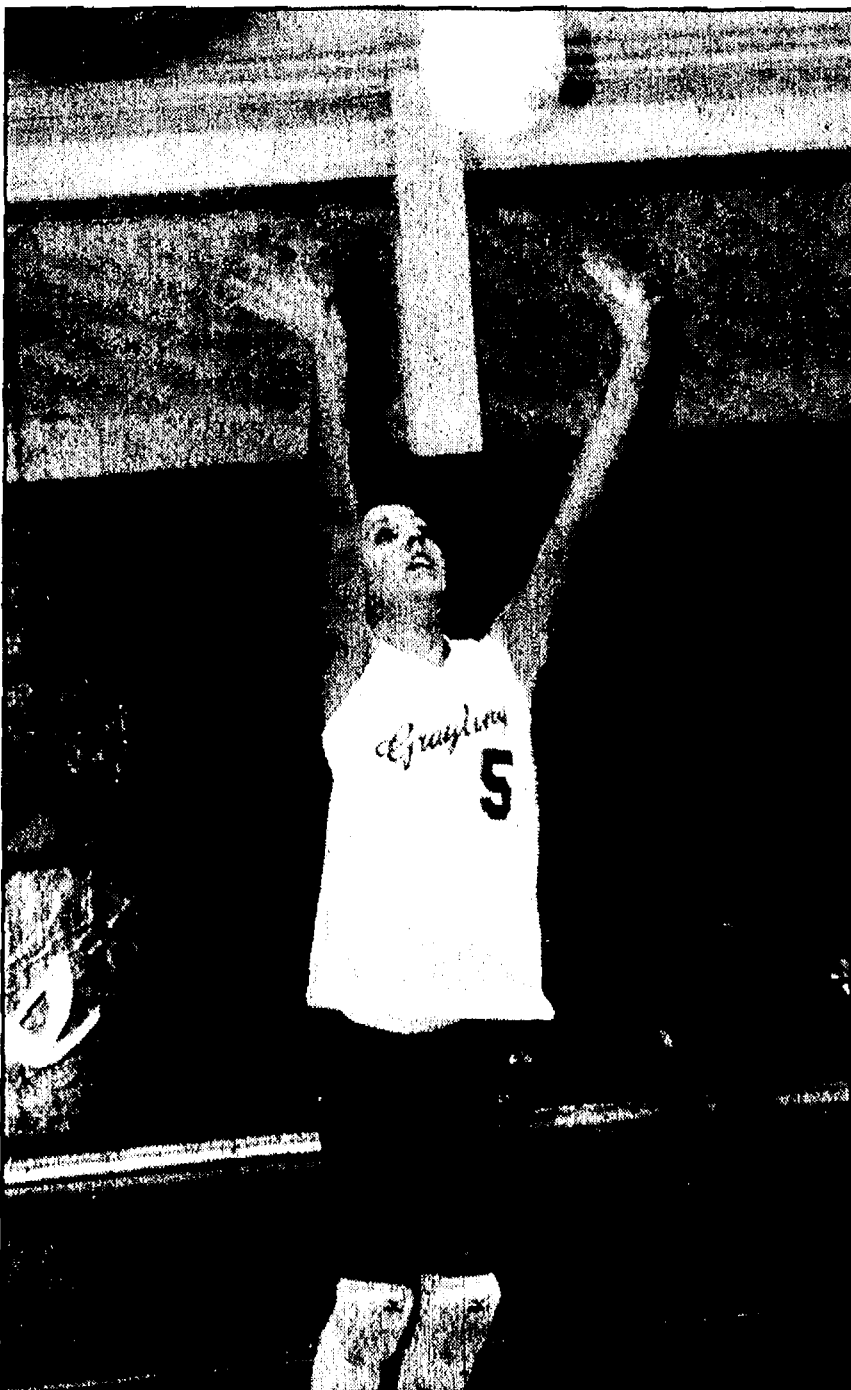

Most Improved Player – Jamie Hagerman, junior. "Jamie, another relatively new player, made huge gains this season. She, too, was asked to change positions late in the season from middle attacker to outside hitter and she responded. Jamie without a doubt was our strongest hitter. With just a little more work in the outside position, she could be an all-conference outside hitter," Coach Banda said.

Wendy's of Grayling Congratulates Heisman Nominees!

Alex Mosel

Nick Parkinson

Grayling High School's Nick Parkinson and Alex Mosel of the Class of 2007 were nominated for the coveted Wendy's High School Heisman award. Similar to the collegiate Heisman recognition, this award honors the nation's top high school seniors who best exemplify a supreme "scholar-citizen-athlete." These two promising leaders were recognized by their coaches and teachers for their academic aptitude, athletic talent and commitment to their communities.

Now celebrating 13 years of commitment to youth and education, this program was created through a partnership between Wendy's, the National association of Secondary School Principals and the Heisman Memorial trust, in 1994. Principal's from approximately 24,000 high schools across the country were invited to nominate one male and one female student who fulfill the program requirements. Students are judged on academic and athletic achievements in addition to community service. The Wendy's High School Heisman Program is comprised of five phases - Nomination, State Finalists, State Winners, National Finalists and National Winners. Entries are initially evaluated by the scholastic review service, ACT Inc. during the State Finalist and State Winner phases and then passed on to a distinguished panel of judges - including past Heisman Memorial Trophy recipients, and education, business and community leaders - to elect the National Finalists and National Winners.

Too often, trying to sell your own home can feel like an uphill battle against red tape, unforeseen pitfalls and a mountain of paperwork.

It's easier with RE/MAX. RE/MAX agents average more experience and more sales than other real estate agents.

They know what it takes to bring buyers and sellers together.

They also care enough to schedule viewings of your home when it's convenient for you - not them. Because outstanding service is what RE/MAX is all about.
